A week from today it will be all over but the shouting and either Gov. Cox or Senator Harding will have been elected president. Vermont is so safely republican that the campaign has been colorless and it is only by travel or reading that one realizes that in such great states as Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and New York politics are uppermost in the minds of both men and women and will continue to hold the public's attention until Nov. 2. In these states, and in many others, the campaign has reached a white heat with the usual charges and counter charges by the spellbinders and leaders of both sides.

The campaign now closing has been an educational one with the League of Nations stressed more than any internal questions and policies which have previously been kept at the front. There is still a wide difference of opinion in both parties as to what the attitude of the United States should be in the participation of foreign affairs, but we believe that the election next Tuesday will register the people's approval or disapproval of the Wilson administration. All indications point to a very clear expression of disapproval and a large republican majority. Stray votes taken all over the country show a majority of three to one for the republican candidate, and while these are not decisive they are certainly significant. The republican majority in Maine was a forecast that must have disheartened every democrat in the land and showed unmistakably what the people of the Pine Tree State thought of the Wilson administration.

The soldier and civilian knows now, if he did not know before, that the Wilson administration bungled all through the war and that literally billions of dollars were wasted for which loyal men and women economized by buying Liberty bonds and made other noble sacrifices. The people have not had until this time an opportunity to register their verdict on the present administration and believe that will be registered next Tuesday in a sweeping republican majority.

The colleges have been taking straw votes but the real thing will come when the vote of the electoral college is known.

This is a good year to vote the straight republican ticket, national, state, county and town.

Sworn statements give $2,466,019 as the amount of the G. O. P. campaign fund to date. Gov. Cox saw more than double and talked more than doubtful when he claimed that it was $15,000,000.

Treasury statistics say that the average distribution of money in the United States is $51.06 per person. We have the $1.06 part of it.

Next Tuesday is the day when we intend to do it to the democracy. Every vote helps.

According to the statement of State Bank Commissioner Carpenter, the savings banks and trust companies of Vermont had a total in resources for September 8 of $134,816,275.01. It is sane to say that the '01 has been made into $1.00 by this time.

How time flies. President Wilson and Governor Clement will soon be issuing their farewell Thanksgiving proclamations. What a lot we have to be thankful for!

Convicts who escaped from Sing Sing were captured while eating apples down in New Hampshire. We are slow to profit by experience. Old Father Adam got into difficulty by eating apples, too.

BACK TALK

The Rutland News advises: "Don't be contented with your lot—until there's a house on it."

Congressman Joseph G. Cannon tripped over a piece of coal on the basement floor of his Illinois home and fell, fracturing one of the bones of his left wrist. The Springfield Reporter wonders what Uncle Joe was doing down cellar, as the weather has been so warm this month that it isn't likely the furnace needed his personal attention.

The Morrisville Messenger hopes automobiles will not become so cheap that no one will want to buy them.

The Burlington Clipper forecasts the coming legislative struggle over the normal school question as liable to develop into a case of Pull, Yank and Grab.

The Randolph Herald, judging by the straw vote being taken by the women, regrets that the republican party did not put over equal suffrage about eight years ago.
